Today I have an obligation.

No longer will I be silent if you need help.

Silence is participation.

I refuse to participate in the problem.

If you need help, come to me.

If I think you need help, I'm getting involved.

I've got your back.

Margaret Lyons

The first female vice-president of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation (CBC), Margaret Lyons CM, was born Keiko Margaret Inouye on November 21, 1923, in Mission, British Columbia, to Japanese immigrants Yoshinobu Inouye and Teru Tsuji.

Lyons and her family left Mission in 1942 after the expulsion of Canadians of Japanese heritage from the area. The family settled in Winnipeg, Manitoba, where Lyons worked as a domestic worker. After moving to Hamilton, Ontario, in 1944, Lyons served as a housemaid at McMaster University while completing her high school education. Then, she attended the university and obtained an economics degree.

A year and a half after starting as a typist with the BBC, Lyons became a producer for BBC's Asian current affairs service, where she remained for six years. In 1957, Lyons interviewed Lester Pearson after he received the Nobel Peace Prize, and he encouraged her to enter the Canadian journalism industry. So, she moved to Toronto in 1960 and began working as CBC Radio's public affairs producer. Afterward, Lyons was promoted to director of the AM radio service and then to vice-president of network radio at the CBC, becoming the first woman elected to that position. Lyons held a reputation of "benevolent ferocity" and was affectionately referred to as the "Dragon Lady".

RECESS REMINDERS FROM THE OFFICE...

Some important recess reminders for our Wolfpack...

You can play with friends in ways that are safe and fun. That means you can keep your hands and feet to yourself.

You can be creative with games you play and remember to keep them fair and inclusive.

When we do this we can all have a fun recess where everyone feels safe and respected.

Work together because #We'veGotYourBack
